

The Best Trouble.

The other afternoon a man rushed in to the leading terminal, galloped up the stairs and dashed for the train shed just as the gates were closed against him.

He looked as if he wanted to swear most vociferously, but he was out of wind, and all that he could do was to lean against the fence and soulfully sigh. It was then that the grateful idiot, who is always on hand, passed over and halted at.

"Did you miss your train, old boy?" he queried, with a smiling glance at the panting one.

"No," was the grumpy rejoinder. "I chase myself up here that way every five minutes to see them what the gates."

"What made you so late?" queried the other, not at all abashed. "Is your watch out of order?"

"No, my watch is all to the good," replied the man who missed the train, "but I think that my feet are about two minutes slow."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

His Lesson.

A woman who had divorced her husband met him after many years.

"Have you married again?" she asked.

The man shook his head.

"Ah," sighed the woman. "You still have me."

"No," said the man. "I love myself."

He was asked to explain.

"Because taught me the value of freedom," he replied. "I am answerable now only to myself. I come when I please, go when I please, do what I please, and need not make explanations. I no longer divide my pleasures by two or multiply my worries by the same number. What I care is mine and, when I contemplate its possible reduction, I need fear for myself alone. I have no great joys, but then I have no great sorrows."

"And love?" inquired the woman.

"I have been married," answered the man.—Channing Pollock in Show.

The Bird's Bill Was Locked.

A curious bird tragedy is told about in the London Field. A man found a golden hammer dead in his yard at the foot of a wall. The bird had flown against it with such force as to be stunned. Not only that, but the upper mandible had been bent back, and in the straightening out the sharp point was driven down through the lower bill and locked, thus dooming the bird to death by starvation. The man sent the head to the Field. A good many similar accidents have been recorded, but it was always a heavier bird, whose weight made the springing of the bill easier. A good many of the birds were found in a starved condition, showing that they died lingering deaths from want of food. Birds that fly against the light-houses have the skull bones crushed and die instantly, but others are stunned only.

People read all the want ads in the afternoon paper.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

They Tell the Story of Ringling Bros.' Immense Circus.

Ringling Brothers' circus is the largest in the world. 1,280 people are employed in its various departments; 650 horses are used, and it requires eighty-five cars to haul the huge enterprise from place to place. Twenty tents are spread for the daily exhibitions. The circus tent proper will seat 14,000 people comfortably. The performances take place in three rings, two stages and on a hippodrome track a quarter of a mile long. Three hundred performers take part in the immense program, and 200 highly bred horses are used in the ring acts. In the menagerie department are 108 cages and dens, occupied by the rarest and most valuable collection of rare wild animals in the world. A herd of forty elephants, the largest in captivity, is to be seen in this annex. A rhinoceros, two giraffes, hippopotamus, a horned horse, white polar bear, tapir, black vaark, baby tigers, and black leopards are other rare animals to be found in this zoo. The performing elephants are the most remarkably educated beasts ever seen, and the trained seals present a marvelous exhibition of animal intelligence. The ring performances are characterized by novelty and sensation, and many of the leading artists are European celebrities appearing here for the first time. Clark Brothers, Gilbert Eldred and the four Bedlins, the leading exponents of bareback riding in the world, are in this class. The DeKock family, Ernesto Sisters, Herr Fust, 5 Normans, Nelson Comiques, Young Brothers, 5 Mowatt, Ori troupe and the Clark-onians, are among the imported gymnasts of international fame. The gorgeous spectacle of the Field of the Cloth of Gold employs 1,200 characters, 200 dancing girls and 300 choristers. The music is rendered by a band of fifty musicians. This chorus is truly the world's greatest, and an institution of American origin and growth. Ringling Brothers' marvelous shows will exhibit at Ardmore, Thursday, October 4, giving two performances, afternoon at 2 and evening at 8 o'clock.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold. A. J. Nusbaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case and I took several medicines which seemed to only aggravate my case. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package, and it quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success."
